PASTOR’S REFLECTION

The gospel is about God's plan for marriage. Jesus found in his time that marriage was not in accord with God's plan. Divorce was common and women became victims because man could easily send his wife away with just a letter of dismissal. In a culture where the status of a woman depended on having the right husband, a letter of dismissal meant to be thrown into a society where a woman could not survive on her own.

Jesus says that this was never part of God's plan in the creation of Adam and Eve. The book of Genesis talks about a permanent bond, "What God has joined together, no human being must separate." The sanctity of marriage goes back to the creation story. God created Eve out of the rib of Adam. Jewish teachers explained she was not created out of Adam's head for he might think she is a product of his imagination and power and then she is his property. Neither was she created from his feet for he might think she is at his footstool as a servant always on call. She was created from the rib which protects the heart. She must be the person closest to his heart. Marriage must be a relationship of love.

CHRIST THE KING CHURCH – HISPANIC COMMUNITY

- By Father Ornelo Cherez

Domingo 9 de Octubre del 2024. (Semana XXVII del tiempo ordinario).

Hermanas y hermanos, la primera lectura de hoy nos presenta la creación de la mujer como un acto de amor con el que Dios completa la existencia de Adán. Tiene una ternura infinita descubrir este Dios que se ocupa de la soledad del hombre, aun después de hacer que desfilen ante sus ojos "todos los animales del campo y todos los pájaros del cielo". Dios que "mira", que "cavila" en su interior y que busca el camino de la felicidad para el hombre.

Como fruto de esa "mirada" entrañable, en la que no falta la compasión, llega la mujer. Por eso en los ojos de la mujer hay algo de esa mirada divina que, cuando mira, acaricia, protege, se preocupa, se implica. Notemos la diferencia entre los ojos del hombre y los de la mujer. Dios había presentado al hombre "todos los animales del campo y todos los pájaros del cielo" y el hombre los había visto y los había nombrado. El acto de nombrar tiene una nobleza propia, que se acerca al acto de crear, pues está escrito: "Dios... da vida a los muertos y llama a las cosas que no son, como si fueran" (Rom 4,17). Mas esa nobleza también marca una distancia. Los ojos del hombre son aptos para eso, especialmente, para definir una distancia, que es la que permite considerar de modo más abstracto y objetivo, pero también más "frío" e "impersonal" todas las cosas.

Por contraste, la mirada de la mujer, que emerge de cerca del corazón del hombre pero primero de cerca del corazón de Dios, es diferente. Ella no da un nombre sino que establece un vínculo. No hace del hombre una cosa ni quiere ser una cosa para el hombre. No una cosa sino una casa. En ella, el hombre encuentra la alegría que no sintió cuando nació. En ella el hombre percibe la alegría de la gratuidad de su propio ser.

Por eso el relato bíblico es preciso: el encuentro entre el hombre y la mujer no se da en una especie de "terreno intermedio", como si cada uno saliera de "lo suyo" al encuentro del otro. Es el varón quien se pone en movimiento. Lo dice la Biblia y lo confirma la experiencia. En aquellos lugares y ambientes en que la mujer se siente más amada y donde el hombre se siente más feliz de ser hombre, siempre el movimiento se da en la dirección de la búsqueda de él hacia ella, y en eso encuentran ambos felicidad: él por la casa de amor que halla; ella por sentirse valorada y preciosa ante él.

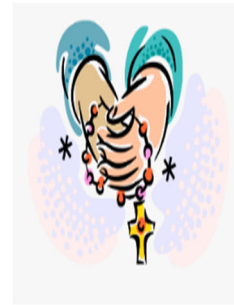

Que Dios les regale una semana llena de bendiciones.
